

Nominee – SPR Director of Membership

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Lois Lee

Education: Perelman School of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania: M.D., 1996
Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health: M.P.H., 2003

House Staff and Fellowship Training: Intern, Pediatrics, Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, Philadelphia, PA, 1996-7; Resident, Pediatrics, Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, Philadelphia, PA, 1997-9; Fellow, Pediatric Emergency Medicine, Boston Children's Hospital, Boston, MA, 1999-2003

Faculty Positions: Instructor in Pediatrics, Harvard Medical School, Boston, MA, 2003-10; Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, Harvard Medical School, Boston, MA, 2010-present; Assistant Professor of Emergency Medicine, Harvard Medical School, Boston, MA, 2014-present

Current Position: Assistant Professor of Pediatrics, Harvard Medical School, Boston, MA; Assistant Professor of Emergency Medicine, Harvard Medical School, Boston, MA

Society Memberships: Phi Beta Kappa, American Academy of Pediatrics, Injury Free Coalition for Kids, American College of Emergency Physicians, Society for Pediatric Research, Academic Pediatric Association

SPR Activities: Active member since 2012. Abstract reviewer for Annual Meeting. Member of the Communications Committee since 2015.

Research Interests: Pediatric trauma care. Injury prevention. Health policy.

Other Information: Nick Littlefield Health Policy Fellow, Network for Excellence in Health Innovation (NEHI), 2016-17

Comment: The SPR brings together researchers of all types—basic science, translational, and clinical—across the range of pediatric specialties with the common goal of improving the health and wellbeing of children. As a member of the Communications Committee I have participated in efforts to enhance communication of the work of the members, and also have come to understand some of the communication challenges. I look forward to the opportunity of serving as the Director of Membership in the SPR Council. By focusing on the talents and energies of the SPR members, I hope to continue to advance engagement of the members to promote and further the mission of the SPR.