

Karam, Oliver

Dr. Oliver Karam is an Associate Professor in the Division of Critical Care Medicine of Children's Hospital of Richmond at VCU. After training in pediatric critical care in Geneva and Montreal, he obtained a Master in Science degree and then a PhD clinical research, for his work on transfusion medicine in critically ill children. Dr. Karam has published over 50 peer-reviewed articles and has contributed to many chapters in pediatric critical care textbooks. Dr. Karam's clinical interests lie in sepsis, acute liver failure and extracorporeal life support.