Dear Chair Cole, Ranking Member DeLauro, Chair Collins, and Vice Chair Murray:

As Congress takes steps to consider final funding for fiscal year (FY) 2027 appropriations bills, the undersigned members of the Health Professions and Nursing Education Coalition (HPNEC)[1] urge you to work in a bipartisan manner to expeditiously finalize a full-year FY 2027 Labor, Health, and Human Services, Education, and Related Agencies (Labor-HHS) appropriations bill by the end of the calendar year that invests maximally in the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) Title VII health professions and Title VIII nursing workforce development programs.

The HRSA Title VII health professions and Title VIII nursing workforce development programs successfully recruit, train, and support physicians, physician assistants, nurses, dentists, geriatricians, mental and behavioral health providers, public health practitioners, social workers,

[1] The Health Professions and Nursing Education Coalition (HPNEC) is an alliance of more than 90 national organizations representing schools, students, and health professionals dedicated to ensuring that the health care workforce is trained to meet the needs of our entire population. Together, the members of HPNEC advocate for adequate and continued support for the health professions and nursing workforce development programs authorized under Titles VII and VIII of the Public Health Service Act and administered by HRSA. pharmacists, and other frontline health care workers critical to addressing the nation's health needs. Moreover, these programs deliver results where they are needed most, training providers to practice across the United States, including in rural and underserved communities, focusing on interprofessional education and workforce retention. As our nation faces dire current and future health workforce shortages, the Title VII health professions and Title VIII nursing workforce development programs help further support a high quality and well-educated health workforce, which ultimately improves patients' access to care.

HPNEC members appreciate the House Appropriations Committee's efforts to advance a proposal that would maintain and increase funding for the Title VII and VIII programs. HPNEC members remain concerned that chronic underfunding for the HRSA Title VII and VIII programs will worsen our existing health workforce shortages and hinder our nation's ability to educate current and future providers. Moreover, while the House Appropriations Committee-approved Labor-HHS bill would increase funding for select Title VII and VIII programs, HPNEC members recommend that any increases to the programs do not come at the expense of other critical health professions programs. HPNEC urges lawmakers to finalize the FY 2027 Labor-HHS appropriation bill with additional investments into all the Title VII and VIII programs.

A strong investment in the Title VII and VIII programs is essential to helping address health workforce shortages in critical areas of need and shape the future health workforce at all stages of the continuum. HPNEC strongly encourages the timely completion of the full-year FY 2027 appropriations bills, with funding of at least $1.590 billion allocated to these programs.
